

CodingTrainer.com

REFUND POLICY

Before signing up for these classes you need to clear your schedule for the 26 week period. This class requires time and commitment on your part as well as ours. We cannot be responsible for child care issues, job changes, or any other circumstances that prevent you from attending your classes.

Deposits by their very nature are non-refundable. They are a deposit to show us your commitment to attending the class. We have costs associated with the class and we must plan accordingly. Therefore we regret that we cannot refund deposits.

The class fee is also non-refundable for the same reason. As we are sure you understand, we cannot run a business by planning for a set number of students (we keep our classes small and do turn away students when we reach a level that we feel is too large), only to have those students fall out because of changes in their life.

We are committed to providing you with the best training, atmosphere, and materials available. This is why you are taught in a classroom setting and provided almost 700 pages of additional custom prepared material written by your instructor. These things take time and costs money - but we want you to succeed and we try to provide all of the necessary tools for you to become a certified coder!

BE SURE TO READ OUR REFUND POLICY

<http://www.codingtrainer.com/refund.pdf>